1. What approved work did you complete?

Name duties, responsibilities, and the learning objective they supported.

2. What evidence shows the quality of your work?

Describe product, process, feedback, documentation, or another verifiable result without exposing private client or workplace information.

3. How did you protect safety and sanitation?

Identify a specific practice, decision, or correction.

4. What professional habit mattered most?

Consider attendance, communication, teamwork, appearance, resource management, ethics, problem-solving, or customer service.

5. What feedback did you receive and how did you respond?

Record the feedback accurately and describe the action you took.

6. What problem or unexpected condition did you handle?

Explain what was within your authority, what you escalated, and what you learned.

7. How has your responsibility changed?

Connect increasing responsibility to demonstrated preparation rather than time alone.

8. What is your next goal?

Name the action, support, target date, and evidence that would show progress.

Use the formal concern route

A reflection is not an incident report. Report an urgent safety, welfare, harassment, discrimination, supervision, or legal concern immediately through the approved process.
